

Installing RRAS and Joining a Domain Review

1. What two configurations will we set up on a Windows 2008 Server when configuring routing and remote access?
2. Why would we load Network Address Translation (NAT) on a Windows 2008 Server?
3. What Windows 2008 Server Network Interface Card (NIC) works with Network Address Translation?
4. What Windows 2008 Server Network Interface Card (NIC) works with a Virtual Private Network?
5. In the Server manager, what Windows 2008 Server role do we select for Routing and Remote Access?
6. Ed just added a client computer to Windows 2008 Domain Controller. The client computer does not have Internet access. What should Ed check on the server?
7. At the Server Manager, we have just installed Routing and Remote Access on a Windows 2008 Server. What is our next step?
8. How many options are given on the Configuration window when setting up a Routing and Remote Access on a Windows 2008 Server?
9. What has to be identified on the VPN Connection window when setting up a Routing and Remote Access on a Windows 2008 Server?
10. What information is needed to join a Windows 7 client computer to a Windows 2008 Domain Controller?
11. The Windows 2008 Domain Controller has an external interface card with the IP address 192.168.20.2 and internal interface card with the IP address 200.20.0.1. What would be the TCP/IP address settings for the Windows 7 client?

Installing RRAS and Joining a Domain Review

12. What Windows 7 dialog box do we open to find “change settings” so we can convert from workgroup to a domain?
13. What System Properties command buttons do we select so we can convert from workgroup to a domain?
14. After successfully joining a domain, what must we do?
15. What is the access level account type default when adding a domain user to a client computer?
16. What special character divides the domain name and a user account name when logging into a Windows 2008 Domain Controller?
17. What action is taken by the Network Administrator after the Windows 7 Network Interface Card is configured for the domain network?
18. What TCP/IP utility will find an IP address after we type in the domain name?
19. What is the most common error experienced when adding a Windows 7 client computer to a domain?
20. When setting up an administrator account on a client computer, what is the access level account type?