

Using Exchange Server 2010 Review

Name: _____ Date: _____

1. What do we have to configure to guarantee mail service outside the organization?
2. What is the sequence to create a new Send Connector?
3. After naming the Send Connector, we select _____ for the intended use to reach the external network.
4. When making a New Send connector, we select Add and _____ when configuring the address space.
5. In order to send to external domains, we input what for the address when configuring the address space?
6. What option would we select to use the DNS server to route the electronic mail on the Exchange server?
7. What is the one property setting required to complete the new Send Connector for an Exchange server?
8. What is the sequence to create a new Receive Connector?
9. What is the default port for simple mail transfer protocol?
10. What is the default port for POP3?

11. What DNS record is for the mail exchanger?
12. Where do we change the email size limits?
13. Everyone in the organization needs a _____ to send and receive email.
14. What are the types of mailbox to select when creating a new mailbox in Exchange server 2010? Describe them.
15. What is the type of users we can select when creating a new mailbox?
16. What is the default archive setting when creating a new mailbox?
17. What is OWA?
18. When making a new mailbox and adding existing users, where do the user names come from?
19. When testing an Exchange server, we create _____ new mailboxes. We join the domain with a client computer using one of the new accounts and setup Outlook for them. We send an email to the other account and we repeat the process to verify the process.